

Preparing Your Manuscript for Publication in High Impact Journals

James L. Morrison

Founding Editor

On the Horizon, The Technology Source, and Innovate

Professor Emeritus of Educational Leadership

University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

<http://horizon.unc.edu>

Manuscript Expectations

- Appropriate
- Fit
- Complies with house style
- Follows submission requirements
- Polished

Suggestions

- Citations
- No errors
- Stake your claim early
- Focus
- Follow guidelines

Suggestions

- Prose
- Concrete
- Citations
- Literature
- Come full circle

Suggestions

- Writing center
- Colleagues
- No multiple journal submissions
- Handling rejection

Writing Resources Available Online

- ❑ The Online English Grammar at <http://tinyurl.com/lzj4lv>
- ❑ The Elements of Style, William Strunk, Jr. <http://tinyurl.com/5ex96a>
- ❑ The UNC Writing Center Handouts
<http://tinyurl.com/8ajlug>
- ❑ The Purdue Online Writing Lab (OWL)
<http://tinyurl.com/ryb63>
- ❑ APA Online at <http://www.apastyle.org/electref.html>

Writing Resources Available in Print

- Review style guide the journal specifies (which may be an online house style)
- The Chicago Manual of Style*
- The APA Publication Manual, 5th Edition*

Publication Resources

- Janette K. Klingner, David Scanlon, and Michael Pressley, “How to Publish in Scholarly Journals” at <http://tinyurl.com/72eyrl>
- Kay Uchiyama & Genet Simone, “Publishing Educational Research: Tips and Guidelines” at <http://tinyurl.com/68manj>

The full version of slides with speaker notes are available at http:// horizon.unc.edu/conferences (linked in the description of this presentation)